

64,600-122
920003

Abstract of the Disclosure

[00044] A microelectronic structure that includes a semi-conducting substrate including circuits formed therein and a top surface, and at least one conductive bump situated on the top surface providing electrical communication to the circuits, the at least one conductive bump has a sidewall formed of an electrically insulating material.